

BARBRA STREISAND INTERNATIONAL FAN CLUB

520 Fifth Avenue

New York, New York 10036

"STREIZETTE"

Vol. IV, No. 1

Most of show business people don't know where they'll be working next, but not Barbra Streisand. Our busy Barbra doesn't know when her next vacation will be. She's had so many offers lately -- if you put them all end-to-end, they would circle the globe at least three times. Among the offers getting top priority consideration from Barbra are: "The Divine Sarah," a musical for Broadway on the life of Sarah Bernhardt; a Broadway musical based on the life of chanteuse Edith Piaf; the leading role (what else?) in "Romeo and Juliet" at Canada's Stratford Shakespeare Festival; and a musical version of the movie "Sabrina" at Paramount. Is there no end in sight?

STR-EYES-SAND: Barbra may start a whole new trend in eye make-up after "Funny Girl" is released and you have a chance to see her eyes in the "Swan Lake" ballet parody. She wears false eyelashes -- nothing odd about that -- but attached to each set of lashes is a strip of glittering rhinestones! In case you want to try it, Barbra applied soft brown eye-shadow over the rhinestones and outlined the shadow with dark brown pencil. The whole look is terrific -- just right for her beautiful, almond-shaped eyes. . . .Speaking of that "Swan Lake" take-off, Barbra really does take off and fly, all with a little help from some special wires. After her first stint aloft, Barbra told director William Wyler: "It's okay for short hops, but I'd hate to go cross-country that way." . . .And speaking of the way Barbra looks in "Funny Girl," watch for her luscious leopard skin coat -- it cost $15,000.

OFF THE RECORD: Barbra's "People" album is still copping awards for her. It just won top honors in Italy's annual record prizes by the National Association of Record Critics. . . .American critics are saying that "Simply Streisand" is simply wonderful. . . .Watch for Barbra's newest single, due out shortly. In case you haven't heard, one of the sides will be a first -- Barbra singing rock 'n roll!

BLONDE BARBRA? Yes, Barbra sports a brand new hair-do in "Hello, Dolly!" It's the new cork-screw "dolly" curls in shades of blonde. What's more, it's real. In fact, Barbra's feelings were hurt when columnist Earl Wilson reported she was wearing a wig the first time he saw her new look. After all, it took her three hours to make it look that way.

FAMILY FEATURES: Little Jason celebrated his first birthday in December at a party given by Mama Barbra. There was lots of ice cream and birthday cake, but only one very special guest. Guess who: Jason's proud papa Elliott Gould, of course. Barbra and Elliott, incidentally, have turned down more than $1 million in endorsement offers for Jason since he was born.

DON'T FORGET: "Funny Girl" premieres in New York on September 18. Start saving your pennies now because tickets are $100 apiece (proceeds go to the Mayor's Commission on Youth and Physical Fitness). Barbra and Elliott plan to be there. Before we leave "Funny Girl," we should tell you that thoughtful Barbra gave individual gifts to each of the 180 cast and crew members who worked with her on the picture. And good news, in case you heard they were cutting "Funny Girl": producer Ray Stark managed to cut the picture to 2½ hours without touching any of Barbra's 12 songs.

Cordially,

Roz Kind
Roz Kind